

Agriculture, Natural Resources and Community Economic Development

This team is the premiere source of educational programs and information about Agriculture, Natural Resources, and the Food System. We are a customer driven educational organization which assists Tennesseans in achieving their goals of profit in agriculture, abundant and safe food, a clean environment and effective stewardship of natural resources.

What is 4-H?

Tennessee 4-H encourages diverse groups of youth to develop their unique skills and talents to the fullest potential. Extension's 4-H youth development program helps youth from 9 to 19 develop self-esteem, leadership and citizenship skills, and gain knowledge in a wide range of subjects. "Learning by doing" through hands-on activities and community involvement empowers 4-H'er's to develop and strengthen life skills.

Family and Consumer Science

UT Extension Family and Consumer Sciences is the University of Tennessee at work in your community. Our top professionals in every county use research-based education to help Tennessean gain knowledge and develop confidence in making good decisions today and tomorrow. We are successful in helping consumers improve their well-being results in economic benefits for individuals, families and communities.
